Ask any homeowner which room they least enjoy cleaning and the bathroom usually wins. Between soap scum, toothpaste spatter, hair in the drain and the mystery ring around the tub, it is a job that never seems to stay finished. The total bathroom clean-up is one of the core services included in every visit from The Happy Housekeepers, a Roanoke house cleaning company that has been taking on that job since 1979.

A total bathroom clean-up covers the room from top to bottom. deep house cleaning Tubs and showers, sinks, counters, mirrors and toilets are cleaned, fixtures are wiped down and the floor is mopped. Waste baskets are emptied and cobwebs in the corners and around the exhaust fan are removed. When the crew finishes, the bathroom should feel clean in the places you can see and the places you usually avoid looking.

Roanoke summers bring real humidity, and bathrooms feel it first. Showers that stay damp all day are a magnet for mildew in grout lines and around caulk. Regular professional cleaning stops that build-up before it becomes a deep stain, which saves you from harsh scrubbing later. Homes in lower-lying areas near the Roanoke River or Tinker Creek often notice this most from June through September.

Households with several bathrooms benefit most from a recurring plan. A family of five in Cave Spring might have a primary bath, a kids bathroom and a powder room downstairs, each with its own level of mess. Weekly or bi-weekly visits keep all of them consistent, while monthly plans work well for smaller homes and empty nesters.

Light fixtures above the vanity and walls around the tub also collect grime over time. Cleaning light fixtures and washing walls and woodwork are specialized services that can be added, especially as part of a spring or fall cleaning. Dusting blinds, window sills and baseboards is included in the standard list.

You do not have to be home while it happens. Staff are bonded and insured by The Happy Housekeepers, and the company itself is licensed, bonded and insured with a BBB blue seal. Estimates are always free and come with no obligation, and Visa, Mastercard, American Express and Discover are accepted.
