Why Semi Truck Crashes Cause Severe Injuries Texas Lawyer A loaded semi truck can weigh up to 80,000 pounds. A typical passenger car weighs around 4,000. When the two collide, the car and the people truck accident legal help inside it absorb most of the force. That's why semi truck crashes so often cause serious and lasting injuries. Common injuries include traumatic brain injuries, spinal fractures, internal bleeding, broken bones, burns and amputations. Many people need surgery and long-term rehab. Some never return to their old jobs. Texas Truck Accident Lawyer has spent years helping clients rebuild after these kinds of injuries. Because the injuries are often severe, these cases need careful work on damages. The firm documents semi truck accident lawyer both current and future needs, from medical care to lost earnings, so any settlement reflects the real cost of what happened. Stopping distance is a big part of the problem. A fully loaded semi traveling at highway speed can need close to two football fields to come to a stop, far more than a passenger car needs. In heavy Texas traffic, that gap often isn't there. When a truck driver follows too closely or drives too fast for conditions, a crash can become unavoidable in a matter of seconds. The firm's experts calculate what the driver should have done based on the truck's real weight and speed, which often shows exactly where things went wrong.

The firm's Truck Accident Response Team brings together an attorney, a crash reconstruction expert, a trucking industry safety expert, a private investigator and a nurse practitioner. Each one covers a different part of the case, from how the crash happened to how your injuries will affect you years from now. Having that team in place early means nothing important gets missed. Each expert reports back to the legal team, so the full picture comes together in one place rather than in scattered files. Semi truck crash cases also tend to involve more paperwork than ordinary injury claims, from driver logs and inspection reports to shipping documents and insurance filings. Organizing that paperwork into a clear, persuasive claim takes time and know-how. It's work the firm handles for you, so you don't have to spend your recovery sorting through records you've never seen before. Texas Truck Accident Lawyer is ready to help you take the next step. Semi Truck Accident Lawyer Can you sue if a semi truck hits you? Yes. If the driver or trucking company was careless, you can bring a claim against the driver and usually the motor carrier, and sometimes the trailer owner, shipper or maintenance company. Texas Truck Accident Lawyer reviews who's responsible for your crash and which policies apply, with no upfront fee. Call (832) 250-4888 to talk it through. How do you sue a trucking company after an accident? The process starts with a preservation demand so the carrier keeps its truck data, driver logs and camera footage. The firm then investigates, builds the claim and presents it to the insurers once your treatment picture is clear. If no fair offer comes, a lawsuit is filed and the case moves through discovery, mediation and, if needed, trial. How much are most semi truck accident settlements? There's no reliable average because every case turns on its own injuries, medical costs, lost income, fault evidence and available insurance. A soft tissue injury and a spinal cord injury lead to very different outcomes. Texas Truck Accident Lawyer gives honest, free assessments based on the facts of your crash rather than quoting online averages. Is it worth hiring a lawyer if a commercial vehicle hit me but there wasn't much damage? Often it is. Low vehicle damage doesn't always mean low injury, and neck, back and brain injuries can take days to show up. Trucking insurers also move fast to close small claims cheaply. A free consultation with Texas Truck Accident Lawyer will tell you honestly whether representation makes sense for your situation. How long do I have to file a semi truck accident lawsuit in Texas? Texas generally allows two years from the date of the crash for personal injury lawsuits and two years from the date of death for wrongful death claims. Claims involving government entities can require notice much sooner. The firm identifies every deadline in your case at the first meeting. What if the semi truck driver says the crash was my fault? Texas uses proportionate responsibility, so you can still recover if you were 50 percent or less at fault, with your award reduced by your share. Insurers often try to push blame onto the other driver. Truck data, witness interviews within 48 hours and crash reconstruction help keep fault assigned on the evidence. Who pays when an Amazon or FedEx truck causes a crash? It depends on who employed the driver and who owned the vehicle. Many Amazon deliveries are run by delivery service partners, and some FedEx routes are run by independent contractors, each with its own insurance. Texas Truck Accident Lawyer works through those arrangements to identify every source of coverage. What damages can I recover after a semi truck crash in Texas? You can seek medical expenses, future care, lost wages, lost earning capacity and property damage, along with pain, mental anguish, physical impairment and disfigurement. Where a company acted with gross negligence, exemplary damages may also be available. The firm's nurse practitioner helps make sure every injury is documented. Do I need a lawyer who focuses on truck accidents? Semi truck cases involve federal safety rules, driver qualification files, electronic logging data and several layers of insurance that ordinary car wreck claims don't. A firm that focuses on trucking knows which records to demand and how to use them. Texas Truck Accident Lawyer handles truck and commercial vehicle crashes across Texas from Houston and Dallas. How much does a semi truck accident lawyer cost? Texas Truck Accident Lawyer works on contingency, so there's no upfront payment and no attorney's fee unless the firm recovers money for you. The firm also covers investigation and expert costs while the case moves forward. The fee is explained clearly before you sign.
